

Bloom

The one who lives inside my heart, is growing day by day

He knows to let his feelings be and how to have his say

He is a true companion, a man with lots of verve

His courage is unending, he's happy just to serve.

He has a gentle nature, its filled with love and peace

And when I lay beside him, I feel it when we sleep

The days are long when I'm without this man that I call mine

His spirit lights a deep, dark night and makes me feel divine.

There is no more faithful lover, he is himself with me

His smile can melt a frozen heart, his touch can help me see

That I can be more loving, when he is loving too

He helps to keep me grounded, he helps me to stay true.

He's honest and he's clever, his wit could charm a Queen

He's happy and he's caring, he's grateful and he's keen

Appreciative and generous with family and his friends

He's stylish and he's graceful, he wears the latest trends.

I know he isn't perfect, that makes me love him more,

Whenever I am near him, my spirit starts to soar

He is a grand companion on this road that we call life

I hope that we can journey on, through happiness and strife.

Our time is always special, I've known none like it yet

We grow each day together, though separate as we met

A love that's never ending is the only love we'll know

We'll bloom right where we're planted, like seeds that we will sow.